

AUSTRIAN CITY SET ABLAZE BY 3,000 ITALIAN SHELLS

FINAL EDITION

The

Evening
World

FINAL
EDITION

"Circulation Books Open to All."

"Circulation Books Open to All."

PRICE ONE CENT.

Copyright, 1915, by The Free Publishing Co. (The New York World).

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1915.

12 PAGES

PRICE ONE CENT.

WEATHER—Partly cloudy to-night and Sunday.

YALE BATTERED BY HARVARD ATTACK; ELI STAR, GUERNSEY, KNOCKED OUT EARLY

GORIZIA BATTERED TO RUINS IN GREATEST BOMBARDMENT SINCE WORLD'S WAR BEGAN

Vienna Admits That Many Inhabitants Have Been Killed and That Enormous Property Damage Was Caused by Terrific Italian Fire.

VIENNA (via Berlin, Amsterdam and London), Nov. 20.—Gorizia is burning in many places to-day. The Italians have thrown 3,000 shells into the town. Many of the inhabitants have been killed. The property damage is enormous.

The Austrians firmly hold all their original positions and are repulsing attack after attack. The bridgehead in particular has been under an incessant bombardment for many days. Guns of every calibre have been directed against it.

The increased intensity of the Gorizia attack has been an incident to a renewed Italian assault all along the Isonzo lines. Everywhere the Austrians are holding their lines.

(Karl H. von Wiegand, staff correspondent, in a special cable despatch yesterday to The World, described the earlier part of this battle, which he calls the fourth which Italians have waged for the capture of Gorizia.)

"The day and night cannonade of the concentrated Italian artillery," he wrote, "splendidly served, surpasses anything I saw during the June and September offensives of the western front, while at Tarnow and Gorlice, where the Germans and Austrians smashed through the Russian lines by weight of iron and started the Russian steam roller moving backward until it disappeared in the centre of the vast Muscovite Empire, is declared by those who were there, now here, as having been child's play in comparison. The Doherty Plateau and a portion of Mount Podgora are called 'the hell.' They justify the name. Nothing else could give a vague idea of the fighting and the conditions under which it is taking place."

ROME (via Paris), Nov. 20.—The Italian bombardment of Austrian positions in and around Gorizia continues, according to the official statement.

"All along the front the artillery duel continues," says the official statement. "Our guns dispersed enemy marching columns in the Asolo zone and in the upper Cordevole; it destroyed shelters on Mithraskofel (Gail); it bombarded barracks at Gorizia and also swept numerous enemy batteries posted on heights to the east of the city and others hidden in orchards and gardens near the city. Finally it shelled a column of troops which retreated hastily into Gorizia."

"On the Carso Plateau our infantry renewed its attacks with success, especially in the Monte San Michele line, where the Perugia brigade succeeded in conquering all the ground which slopes from the third summit of the mountain to the Isonzo, between Petsano and Boschini."

Afterward, driven from that position by a vigorous counter-attack, it counter-attacked in its turn and retook the lost trenches. Throughout the night, enemy reserves were rushing to our lines. He was mowed down seven times by the accurate fire of our artillery and rifles and was hurled back in disorder with enormous losses. Then, worn out but indomitable, the brave fighters of the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Regiment, their feet swathed in sandbags, burst into the enemy trenches in the darkness, completely dispersing the defenders and taking many prisoners besides abundant war material."

Afterward, driven from that position by a vigorous counter-attack, it counter-attacked in its turn and retook the lost trenches. Throughout the night, enemy reserves were rushing to our lines. He was mowed down seven times by the accurate fire of our artillery and rifles and was hurled back in disorder with enormous losses. Then, worn out but indomitable, the brave fighters of the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Regiment, their feet swathed in sandbags, burst into the enemy trenches in the darkness, completely dispersing the defenders and taking many prisoners besides abundant war material."

Nawab Too Young to Lead Revolt. WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The Nawab of Bhopal is only eleven years old. This was the British Embassy's official reply to a report that the Nawab was leading a revolt in India.

ITALIAN LINER CHASED BY U-BOAT; ESCAPES IN A FOG

Verona, Sister Ship of Ancona, Sent S. O. S. Off Spanish Coast.

BIG SHIP WITH U-BOAT.

Larger Vessel Also Took Part in Effort to Overhaul the Liner.

MADRID, Nov. 20.—A wireless message from the Italian liner Verona late this afternoon announced that the ship had escaped under cover of a fog after having been chased by a large submarine. In an earlier wireless received at Soler on Majorca Island in the Mediterranean, which is off the Spanish coast, 110 miles south of Barcelona, she had announced that she was being chased.

The telegram stated that the Verona was pursued by a large submarine which was accompanied by a steamer, evidently a mother ship. The steamer's position was given as latitude 40 and longitude 6. This would place her in the Mediterranean between the Balearic Islands and the Island of Sardinia.

The steamship Verona of the Italian Line is a sister ship of the Ancona, which was torpedoed recently in the Mediterranean. Her New York agents, Hartfield, Solari & Co., No. 1 State Street, have been striving for two days to get information as to her whereabouts.

The Verona sailed from New York on Oct. 21 and arrived at Genoa, her home port, on Nov. 5. Under her sailing schedule she would have departed from Genoa on Nov. 9, calling at Naples on the 10th and at Palermo on the 11th. At the offices of the line it was stated that she had followed this schedule she would be now in mid-Atlantic. However, since the Ancona sinking sailing schedules have been interfered with considerably, and it may be that she sailed a week later than was expected.

The Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi, on her maiden voyage, arrived here to-day in command of Capt. Luigi Zannoni. The passengers gave high praise to the captain for his precautions against the sinking of the ship by submarines, as the Ancona of the same line, which sailed from Messina Nov. 6, the same day the Verdi sailed from Palermo, was sunk.

Capt. Zannoni was warned from Gibraltar that German submarines had entered the Mediterranean. He put out and provisioned all boats immediately. On Nov. 7 he relayed to coast radio stations a call from the France, which had been torpedoed. An hour and a half later there was a "S O S" from the Ancona. Capt. Zannoni made northwest for the coast of Spain, out of the regular course, and thence down to Gibraltar. No submarines were sighted.

For years Mr. Smith has been at the head of the Democratic organization in the State of New Jersey, with his son-in-law, James Nugent, as lieutenant. He nominated Woodrow Wilson for Governor in 1910, but bitterly opposed him later.

WAR SPECULATIONS 'SWAMP' EX-SENATOR JAMES SMITH; OWES NEARLY $2,000,000

Forced to Turn Leather Concern and Newspapers Over to Trust Company.

RESIGNS ONE OFFICE.

Newark Political Leader's Assets Said to Be in a Tangle.

James Smith Jr., former United States Senator from New Jersey and for years one of the financial and political powers of the commonwealth, is involved to the extent of nearly two million dollars, if not more, by speculative losses occasioned by the war. Mr. Smith this afternoon tendered his resignation as President of the Federal Trust Company of Newark, which hold his notes for amounts approximating $250,000.

Senator Smith has placed his affairs in the hands of the Fidelity Trust Company, one of the strongest banking institutions in New Jersey, and the directors of the company are busily engaged in finding how deeply he is involved. The former Senator, after appearing before the Fidelity officials, admitted that he was "utterly swamped."

Senator Smith's activities, which have led to his financial crash, were in leather and hides, the market for which has been strongly affected by the European situation.

Senator Smith said that the losses of one of his commercial enterprises jeopardized his financial position. He said all his creditors will be paid in full.

The Fidelity Trust Company will take charge of the T. P. Howell Company, one of the largest leather manufacturing concerns in the country, which has been controlled by Mr. Smith and also The Evening Star and the Morning Eagle, his newspaper properties.

The directors of the Federal Trust Company of Newark, of which Mr. Smith has been president since 1904, met at noon to-day to accept his resignation. It was said that Christian Feigenbaum, the brewer, would probably be elected his successor.

It was in announcing his resignation from the Presidency of the Federal Trust Company that Mr. Smith told of his financial difficulties. His indebtedness is said to be principally due to banks in Newark and other places in New Jersey, and possibly in this city.

James M. Smith Jr. was born in Newark, N. J., on June 21, 1851. He began his business career in dry goods, but soon engaged in the manufacture of patent and enamelled leather. His firm, J. M. Halsey & Smith, is one of the largest in the world.

JAMES SMITH JR.

NO WILSON ORDERS ON DEFENSE FOR HIM, SAYS MANN

Republican House Leader Comments Sharply on Request for Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Informed to-day that he would be invited by President Wilson to consult on the preparedness programme, Representative James Mann of Illinois, Republican leader, said:

"I am willing to consult with the President on preparedness, but I will not go to the White House to be informed of the programme, which I am expected to support."

"As do most members of the Republican party, I favor a general policy of preparedness; but what is necessary in such a programme would seem to be the nub of the controversy at the coming session of Congress."

"I have my own ideas on this subject, and I do not propose to take orders from the President."

Mann's words to-day indicate that the bitter feeling he has had for the President for some months has not subsided. The minority leader was attended at a speech made by the President in which the latter spoke of the quality of the Republican representation in Congress. It is believed, however, that Mann will call on the President when he receives the latter's letter.

There was strong indication to-day that Republican Senators will not support the President's defense plan unless the fight for cloture in the Senate is called off.

STROMBOLI MORE VIOLENT.

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 20.—Passengers on steamships arriving from the Lipari Islands report that the eruption of Stromboli volcano is increasing in violence. They describe the spectacle as awe-inspiring, particularly at night, when streams of flaming lava flowing from the crater are visible many miles out at sea.

YOUTHS AND GIRL BRAVED PERILS OF RIVER TO ESCAPE

Set Out From Randall's Island at Night in a Frail Boat.

CAME NEAR SINKING.

May Newman Proved Herself a Heroine When Their Danger Was Greatest.

The fog and of a gale was whipping the waves against the shore of Randall's Island last night, as four small persons clambered into a little boat, and pushed off. Three of them were boys—one was a girl.

As the boat crept slowly out from the protection of the island, the wind and waves swept it about like a chip. A whitecap burst upon the bow and flooded the bottom of the craft. The boys pulled furiously at their oars. The girl set her lips with a grim courage that fought down fear.

Back on Randall's Island the hundreds of other boys in the Children's Hospital had marched with orderly precision to their quarters for the night. No one had noticed that there were three less than had marched out in the morning.

In the girls' hall, too, no one had seen a little figure creep from the mess hall and down the deserted corridors until she found herself out in the night. Down at the shore where the boat lay she waited until the boys joined her.

Then the four set out to brave the perils of the wind-swept river. They were Patrick Hoy, eighteen years old; May Newman, seventeen, and two boys named Durkin and Quinn. For days they had planned their escape, led, according to Hoy, by the Quinn and Durkin youths.

In the middle of the river they realized their danger fully. The full force of the blow seized their boat. Tired and weary from their toil at the oars, the youths began to lose control of the tottering, plunging craft. Waves broke over the side, threatening momentarily to send her to the bottom. Then the courage of the girl was shown. From the hands of Patrick Hoy she seized an oar, and when he sank back, exhausted, she pulled with the two other boys as they fought for their lives.

The New York shore was drawing nearer, but the water in the boat was gaining headway and at any moment they might go down. The girl gave up her oar. She tore the lid from a suitcase in the bottom of the boat, and as the boys pulled on she bailed to keep the craft from sinking. Finally the boat grounded and its occupants clambered out on dry land, exhausted.

They were in the New Haven Railroad yards at St. Ann's Avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-second Street. For a few moments they rested. Then the boys picked up the suitcases they had taken and all began a tramp across the railroad tracks.

Policeman Anderson, on duty in the yards, apled four bedraggled figures plodding along. At sight of the brass buttons they dropped their bags and fled. The three boys obtained a good lead and were drawing near to freedom.

But the spark of gallantry that burned in Patrick Hoy flared into flame as he glanced back and saw the girl struggling feebly in the rear. He paused and then turned back to help her, as Durkin and Quinn fled on. "Take all gallant heroes," Hoy said for the girl's sake. "A moment later the hand of Anderson closed upon the stumbling pair. Durkin and Quinn escaped."

BLUE TEAM IS OUTCLASSED EARLY BY CRIMSON ELEVEN BEFORE CROWD OF 47,000

Cambridgeites Made Four Touchdowns Before Game Was Half Over, While Elis Were Scoreless—Mahan a Team by Himself.

HARVARD CAPTAIN ALONE
ROLLED UP 15 POINTS

Score by Periods

	1st Period	2d Period	3d Period	4th Period	Total
YALE.....	0	0	0	0	0
HARVARD.....	13	14	0	0	27

By ROBERT EDGREN.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—While waiting for the teams to line up the Yale and Harvard undergraduates exchanged cheers and matched their singing abilities. Yale cheered Capt. Mahan of Harvard, and the Crimson shouters immediately returned with three long Harvards and three times three for Capt. Wilson of Yale. There was a crowd of nearly 50,000 on hand as the game started.

HOW TEAMS STARTED.

Harvard	Position	Yale	Position
Harvard	Center	Yale	Center
Harvard	Quarterback	Yale	Quarterback
Harvard	Fullback	Yale	Fullback
Harvard	Halfback	Yale	Halfback
Harvard	Wide Receiver	Yale	Wide Receiver
Harvard	Tight End	Yale	Tight End
Harvard	Linebacker	Yale	Linebacker
Harvard	Defensive Back	Yale	Defensive Back
Harvard	Goal Kicker	Yale	Goal Kicker

"NOT MRS. M'ADOO, BUT CHAUFFEUR TO BLAME"

So Wife of Treasury Secretary Has Not Been Called to Court, Is Statement From Husband's Office.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Mrs. William G. McAdoo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury and daughter of President Wilson, is not in the bad graces of the law, and will not have to appear in court at Savage, Md., for speeding, it was announced at McAdoo's office to-day.

Her chauffeur, Edward Hayden, it was said, is the guilty person. He drove her car at nearly sixty miles an hour on the way from Baltimore, the authorities allege.

Mrs. McAdoo was in the car.

WOMAN WITH AMERICAN PASSPORT IS HELD UP

Lucy Wunche, Who Is Declared to Be a German, Under Arrest With Man in London.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Edward Hodgson, an American, and Lucy Wunche, declared to be a German, both having American passports, were remanded in Bow Street Court to-day, the latter being charged with failing to register as an alien, giving false information and being in possession of a false passport, and Hodgson with aiding and abetting her.

Hodgson, who is described as a mining engineer, has a passport issued in Washington on March 7, 1912. Lucy Wunche's passport was issued in Berlin on July 19. Both were cited in Amsterdam on Oct. 25, the woman being indorsed "accompanying husband to England."

(Continued on Eighth Page.)

FIVE MORE BLAZES AT BETHLEHEM PLANT

Fires in Projectile Departments Discovered in Time to Prevent Heavy Damage.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 20.—Five small fires have been discovered within the past few days in one of the projectile departments of the Bethlehem Steel Works, it was stated to-day. All were soon discovered and extinguished in time to prevent any material damage.

A Daring Dialogue!

BILL.—Just wait till I get ahead in the world.
PHIL.—Why, haven't you got a head now?
BILL.—I mean that you wait till I get on my feet.
PHIL.—You have your feet on now, haven't you?

There are going to be many fine chances for one to get "ahead" and to "get on their feet" separately announced through the

ABOUT 7,500 WANT-FILLING ADVERTISEMENTS TO BE PRINTED, HANDILY CLASSIFIED, IN THE BIG SUNDAY WORLD TO-MORROW!
Sunday World Ads. are the "Jess Willard's" of the Publicity Ring!

BOY KILLS HIS SISTER FOR NOT OBEYING HIM

Shoots Little Girl While They Are Playing School—Lad Runs Away to Woods.

COALBURG, O., Nov. 20.—Because she refused to obey, Frank Carenkille, twelve years old, to-day shot his sister Carmel, ten years, through the heart and then fled to a woods. The children were playing school.